Mr. Case is a field technician with ten months of field experience and three months of archaeological laboratory experience in the Ohio Valley region. Additionally, Mr. Case worked as a data entry technician, compiling data from CRA technical reports spanning from the years 1986 to 1995. As a field technician, Mr. Case has been exposed to surveys, National Register evaluations, and mitigations in the Midwest with an emphasis on the Ohio Valley region which includes the states of Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky. During his experience, he has worked on over 30 different archaeological field projects and six laboratory projects. These field projects have included several surveys for surface mining, landfill, borrow pit, and wastewater treatment projects across the state of Kentucky. The remaining field investigations have included one human burial excavation project in southern Indiana, one human burial excavation in western Kentucky, one human burial excavation in southern Illinois, one Kentucky Transportation Cabinet highway survey, one National Register evaluation of a prehistoric rockshelter in eastern Kentucky, one prehistoric rockshelter mitigation in western Kentucky, one Twentieth Century historic site mitigation in central Kentucky, and one natural gas pipeline mitigation in southern Illinois. Mr. Case has co-authored over ten technical reports for SHPO review with the goal of determining site NRHP eligibility. Experience: Mitigation Experience <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mr. Case has participated in six archaeological mitigations within the states of Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky that have included Archaic and Late Woodland prehistoric sites, as well as Nineteenth and Twentieth Century historic sites. Three of the historic sites consisted of a cemetery in southern Indiana with nine burials that were exhumed, a cemetery in western Kentucky with 57 burials that were exhumed, and a cemetery in southern Illinois with ten burial that were exhumed. National Register Evaluation Experience <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mr. Case has participated in two National Register evaluations. Both of these evaluations were of indeterminate prehistoric sites in Estill and Breathitt counties, Kentucky.

Survey Experience

- Mr. Case participated in more than 25 archaeological surveys across the state of Kentucky as well as two archaeological surveys in Illinois and one in Indiana.

Additional Training

- 2009 Archaeological field school that was coordinated by Dr. Chris Begley of Transylvania University and Nancy O'Malley from the University of Kentucky. The site was a Nineteenth Century Catholic cemetery. The emphasis of the field investigation was to relocate the foundations of several previous structures that were within the confines of the cemetery. The instruction of field methods for the excavation was administered by Dr. Begley and the instruction of laboratory techniques for the project was conducted by Nancy O'Malley.
