Staff Archaeologist I	Field School Supervisor	Archaeological Supervisor
Cultural Resource Analysts, Inc. October 2020–Present	Historic Newport Project Indiana University of Pennsylvania 2019	Delaware State Parks Field Supervisor and Researcher 2017-2019

Rachael Marks is a Staff Archaeologist at CRA's Richmond office in Virginia. She is responsible for archaeological fieldwork supervision, investigation, interpretation, and technical report writing and editing. She has participated in various archaeological projects in the Middle Atlantic Region of the United States, and an international project in Ireland. Before joining CRA, Marks worked as an archaeological field technician and supervisor for the Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control (DNREC) Cultural Resource Unit, where she led the Time Travelers volunteer program and was responsible for maintaining cultural properties throughout the state. These responsibilities included technical report review, updating Cultural Resource Management Plans, maintaining artifact collections, and public education and interpretation as a Certified Interpretive Guide. While attending graduate school at Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUP), Marks also served as a 2019 Field School Supervisor, where she directed graduate and undergraduate students. In addition, she was responsible for artifact analysis and curation, project mapping, and authoring the final report. In addition, at IUP, Marks served as a Graduate Assistant for two years. Her responsibilities during this employment included training undergraduate students in artifact analysis and the cataloging process, curating and preparing legacy collections for final curation, and completing general research for professors.
