Experience Summary Information
Principal Investigator Cultural Resource Analysts, Inc. 2005–2006 and 2008–present	Cultural Resource Field Supervisor Quality Services, Inc. 2006–2008	Archaeological Field/Lab Technician University of Iowa Office of the State Archaeologist, 2001–2005 Great Lakes Archaeological Research Group, Inc. 2004
Lisa Kelley has over 20 years of professional archaeological experience in states such as Alabama, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. She is experienced in both prehistoric and historic archaeology as well as Trimble and Topcon Total Stations, global positioning, and geographic information systems. Ms. Kelley has worked on, organized, managed, and supervised numerous archaeological surveys, as well as served as co-supervisor or crew chief for NRHP site evaluations and phase III site mitigations. Her archaeological experience in cultural resource management is comprised of projects associated with solar and wind developments, pipelines, utility corridors, road construction and/or relocation, coal and gas extraction, landfills, and urban planning projects, as well as smaller developments such as trails, cell towers, stream restorations, and wetland mitigations. In addition, she has authored or co-authored well over 150 technical archaeological reports for cultural resource surveys and 8 NRHP evaluations, as well as contributed to 7 data recovery reports. While in the Plains and Midwest archaeological regions, Ms. Kelley gained experience working with Native American groups through tribal land regulations, native monitoring, ethnographic studies, and cooperative archaeological site recordation and evaluation. Experience: Phase III <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ms. Kelley has participated in 13 phase III data recoveries of both prehistoric and historic sites in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, South Dakota, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. She was the principal investigator for a late nineteenth-through twentieth-century urban multi-residential site and has served as a co-supervisor for the prehistoric site mitigation in the Black Hills of South Dakota as well as was a contributing author to the completion reports of 7 other phase III data recoveries with sections including historical overviews, archival research, site and feature descriptions, and soil stratigraphy analysis. • Excavated test units, features, and post holes on Paleoindian through Mississippian prehistoric and mid-eighteenth to mid-twentieth century historic components, as well as prepared all of the necessary field documentation. • Monitored mechanical excavation to investigate for the presence of buried archaeological material and site soil stratigraphy at prehistoric sites, historic cemeteries, for buried utility trenching, and in urban environments.

Phase II

- Ms. Kelley has participated in almost 30 NRHP evaluations in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, and West Virginia. She served as a principal investigator for a mid-nineteenth-century farmstead (11MG581) in east-central Illinois, principal investigator for four prehistoric habitation sites in Jersey County, Illinois, co-supervisor for an urban historic archaeological site (12CL993) and a Late Woodland prehistoric site (12CL1066) in Clark County, Indiana, as well as a crew chief on 7 historic archaeological sites (15Jf745, 15Jf813–15Jf817, and 15Jf820) in Jefferson County, Kentucky.
- Authored the reports for the NRHP evaluation of Sites 12VG2020 and 12VG2021 in Evansville, Sites 11MG581, 11JY173 and 11JY873–11JY875 in Illinois, 15DA281 in Owensboro, Kentucky, and Site 12CL1066 in Clark County, Indiana. Co-authored NRHP evaluations in DeKalb and Vanderburgh Counties, Indiana, and Jefferson County, Kentucky.
- Conducted controlled reduced interval testing including auger probes to investigate high potential areas with unlocated and/or deeply buried cultural material.
- Conducted archival research and report sections for the NRHP evaluations of sites in Jefferson County, Kentucky, including a four-block radius of the historic East End of Louisville and an early-nineteenth- to twentieth-century community associated with a grist mill; a historic farmstead in Dekalb County, Indiana; a historic city dump in Evansville, Indiana; a post-bellum to mid-twentieth-century African-American hamlet outside of Louisville, and a mid-nineteenth to twentieth-century farmstead (Rosewell Plantation).

Phase I

- Ms. Kelley has participated in well over 200 phase I/Ia/class III inventory level archaeological and cultural resource surveys, including participating in fieldwork and report writing for three solar projects and two wind projects in Illinois in the past two years.
- She has served as field supervisor and report author for over half of these inventory projects.
- She is proficient in the necessary archaeological report requirements for the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota, Tennessee, and Wyoming. In addition, she has prepared multiple FCC forms for communication towers in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and South Dakota, State Historic Preservation Office archaeological site forms, architectural resource inventory forms, as well as accountability forms for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Miscellaneous Experience

- Presented at the Indiana Historic Preservation Conference in 2019 on the historic Bee Slough Dump site in Evansville, Indiana.
- Presented to St. Louis elementary classrooms in 2016 about the prehistory of Illinois and Missouri, including Cahokia.
- Served as guest lecturer for the Fall 2012 semester of an Introduction to Anthropology course at the Edwardsville campus of Southern Illinois University.
- Utilized GIS data and software to develop a working map of Protohistoric and Historic Native American groups on the Plains for use in ethnographical studies.
- Developed and maintained a Geodatabase for combined use in ArcGIS Desktop and ArcGIS online for use with the ArcCollector application for digital field collection
- Created data dictionaries for use with Trimble GeoXT units to be used in conjunction with ArcGIS.
- Collected data with a Topcon Total Station and Trimble data collector for use in spatial and elevation analysis on sites such as a rockshelter site with components dating from early Archaic to Historic time periods, a nineteenth-century farmstead and a historic cemetery.
- Acted as lab supervisor for the 2001 field school students at the University of Iowa Office of the State Archaeologist.
- Maintained access databases for an archaeological library collection at Quality Services, Inc., as well as an artifact inventory for the phase III historical excavation of the Bowen's Prairie site in eastern Iowa, with over 1 million artifacts.

Employment and Task History:

2008-Present: Principal Investigator, Cultural Resource Analysts, Inc., Lexington, Kentucky, and Evansville, Indiana.

- Supervised and participated in various other phase I surveys largely in Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois, as well as in other states such as Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and Ohio.
- Served as supervisor managing projects and schedules for teams of up to ten other archaeologists and field technicians.
- Client correspondence including pre-field organization, post-field results, budget concerns, and report timelines and deliverables.
- Prepared project proposal development, archaeological plans, and permit applications.
- Utilized a Topcon Total Station to create detailed maps of sites subjected to NRHP evaluations and data recoveries.
- Participated in the excavation and relocation of four historic cemeteries in Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky.
- Authored over 125 technical reports for phase I archaeological and cultural resource surveys in Alabama, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, and Tennessee. This includes the documentation and preparation of site maps, forms, soil profiles, photographs, as well as the NRHP evaluations and recommendations for all types of prehistoric and historic archaeological sites.
- Served as crew chief and co-author for the excavation of six urban historic sites in Downtown Louisville, one rural mid-nineteenth century mill site in Kentucky, a prehistoric Late Woodland site in Clark County, Indiana, and a historic urban city block in Jeffersonville, Indiana.
- Contributed as an author to phase III mitigations, including a multi-component rockshelter, a multi-component site complex on the Ohio River, and a historic mitigation of a neighborhood in downtown Lexington, Kentucky.
- Conducted and prepared archival research including ownership histories, family trees, historic map reviews, occupation overviews, and historic context.

2006-2008: Cultural Resource Field Supervisor, Quality Services, Inc., Rapid City, SD.

- Supervised over 30 surveys of 2 to 10 crew members on coal bed methane developments, buried utility exchanges, communication towers, pipeline construction monitoring, BLM proposals, and private landowner improvements in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming and South Dakota.
- Co-supervised a mitigation fieldwork of 39LA259, a prehistoric lithic procurement site located in the Black Hills of South Dakota.
- Participated as a field technician on federal, private and tribal lands for numerous Class I–III surveys.
- Authored reports for 34 archaeological surveys including evaluation of archaeological and historical sites and structures for the National Register of Historic Places.
- Completed all aspects of report preparation and formatting including photo editing, map production, bibliography and reference compilation.
- Utilized GIS and GPS data for preparation of project and site maps using ArcGIS 9.2, Terra Sync, TopCon link, Pathfinder Office, All Topo Pro7 and Auto Cad.
- Prepared budget proposals.
- Conducted architectural assessments of historic structures including multiple view shed analysis for communication tower projects.

2005-2006: Field Technician, Cultural Resource Analysts, Inc. Lexington, Kentucky.

- Completed phase II testing and phase III mitigation in Lewis and Clark Counties, Missouri. Sites that required mitigation included two Archaic, four multi-component Archaic/Woodland, three Middle/Late Woodland and one Historic farmstead/residence.
- Phase II test unit excavation of prehistoric and historic components in the Ohio River Valley, Greendale County, Indiana.

2001-2005: Field Technician, University of Iowa Office of the State Archaeologist, Iowa City, Iowa.

- Participated in numerous phase I field projects including but not limited to: surveys for sewer line and highway realignment, survey of a proto-historic Meskwaki village site ca. 1830s near Des Moines, identification, testing, mitigation and mapping of over 100 prehistoric and historic sites in Missouri for the I-70 expansion, and survey along the Mississippi River Valley including bucket augers, pedestrian surface survey, and collection of Topcon Electronic Total Station points.
- Two phase II excavation projects in Iowa consisting of excavation along the Iowa River and an excavation in southeastern Iowa with 12 test units and surface survey of a 200 x 100 m grid.

- Phase III mitigation projects including: a Late Archaic site along the Iowa River with the site being a short-term encampment containing Table Rock components, and the identification, excavation, mapping and assessment of historic sites in Bowens Prairie Township.
- Lab work including, but not limited to, creating and manipulating topographical and aerial photo maps using ArcView GIS 3.x, conducting public relations including landowner contacts and trouble-shooting land owner questions and concerns, lithic artifact analysis, artifact processing, artifact interpretation, artifact curation, historical research, and database management.
- Authored two supplemental articles for inclusion in project completion reports for the phase III proto-historic Meskwaki village site ca. 1830s and the phase III historic 1840-1860's Bowen Prairie Township Excavations.

Additional Training:
